

There was a terrible fog in Ireland.

Two drivers collided.

They groped their way out of their cars and approached each other.

"I had right of way!" said the first.

"Possibly, but it doesn't matter," replied
the other. "We're in my garage."